DIXON ELKS' HOME DEDICATED FOR CHARITY, JUSTICE, BROTHERLY LOVE

HANDSOME CLUB HOUSE CONSECRATED TO THE PRINCIPLES OF ELKDOM BY GRAND EXALTED RULER THOMAS B. MILLS OF SUPERIOR, WIS., AT NOTABLE MEETING LAST EVENING — DISTRICT DEPUTY HAMBURGER ASSISTED IN THE WORK — DELICIOUS BANQUET, INSPIRING TOASTS, PLEASING MUSIC AND HAPPY SOCIAL HOUR FOLLOWED THE MEETING IN THE LODGE ROOM AT WHICH THE BEAUTIFUL BUILDING WAS DEDICATED.

BUSINESS MANAGEMENT AND GOOD FELLOWSHIP WAS PRAISED

The home of Dixon Lodge No. 779, B. P. O. Elks, was dedicated last evening at a session of the Grand lodge in the lodge room of the beautiful new temple. The ceremonies, presided over by Grand Exalted Ruler of the broad Kingdom of Elks Thos. B. Mills, of Superior, Wis., and participated in by past exalted rulers of the local lodge, were very impressive.

District Deputy Ralph M. Hamburger of Chicago presided temporarily and called to positions of honor the following gentlemen:

Grand Exalted Ruler Thos. B. Mills, Grand Esteemed Leading Knight Edwin W. Smith, P. E. R., Grand Esteemed Loyal Knight Clyde Smith, P. E. R.,

Grand Esteemed Lecturing Knight Richard C. Bovey, P. E. R.,

Grand Esquire John B. Crabtree, P. E. R.,

Grand Chaplain Edwin C. Parsons, P. E. R.,

Grand Inner Guard George C. Dixon, P. E. R.,

Grand Secretary William B. McMahon, P. E. R.,

Chairman of Building Committee George W. Smith.

Dedicatory Ceremonies.

The dedicatory ceremonies were then performed by the appointed officers and Grand Exalted Ruler Mills addressed the assembled brothers.

The Grand Exalted Ruler's address was:

"We come not alone to dedicate this building of ours, this edifice of stone, iron and wood, but we come to dedicate anew the grand structure of our Order, dedicated to the fatherhood of God, and the brotherhood of man, dedicated to the purpose of bringing sunshine and joy into places of darkness and sorrow, dedicated to the teaching that 'I am my brother's keeper,' dedicated to the uplifting of our fellow men, dedicated to that sweet charity which vaunteth not itself, to that justice which balances the scales with the loving hand of mercy, that brotherly love which constitutes our neighbor as the brother, that fidelity which inculcates honor in the keeping of every trust whether imposed or not.

The foundation of this great house was laid many years ago, even when the morning stars sang together, resting securely on the word of God, laid in the cement of the best impulses of the human heart, placed by the hands of love it has been built in the hearts of men, the shrine where in the soul is supreme. These material evidences of our faith will mean little to us and less to the world if there shall not flow from them a grand, sweet harmony of good and for good, if the home and the state shall not be benefited, if the individual in and out of the lodge shall not in his heart of hearts give us God speed. Let us then in these solemn services dedicate ourselves again to the faithful observance of the Golden Rule, to charity without ostentation, to justice towards all men, to brotherly love that means something, to fidelity in all our relations of life. Let not pleasure resound through these halls when pain or poverty shall look in at the window. Let this home stand on the hilltop a beacon light to the weary and worn of a struggling world.

Let the good Angel of Welcome await at these portals and let peace and good will maintain within these walls. Keeping ever in mind the principles for which our order stands aspiring to the commendation of all right-thinking people, ambitious toward the goal of social and fraternal success.

The hand that rounded Peter's dome And groined the aisles of ancient Rome, Wrought in a sad sincerity; Himself from God he could not free, He builded better than he knew.

The conscious stone to beauty grew. So let it be with our work and our play to the end that the community shall be better and the lives of our associates more beautiful!

Good Music.

After the ceremonies in the lodge rooms the Grand Lodge session was adjourned and music by the Marquette orchestra was enjoyed for a half hour before the banquet rooms in the basement were thrown open.

The Banquet.

The banquet was a typical Elks' banquet, which means a good one. The tables and walls of the big hall were beautifully decorated with flowers and colored lights, and the house committee served a delicious and bounteous dinner to 300 Elks.

The Speaking.

With the $10,000 mark within touching distance, the workers in the Y. M. C. The campaign has truly been successful and the absolute need of the association will undoubtedly be met before the great work closes this evening. A supper will be served at 6 o'clock, after which the teams will work hard until 10 o'clock tonight, when the campaign will positively close. And it is a certainty that some heavy work will be done this evening.

MILK FACTORY PAYS $33,010 TO FARMERS

TODAY WAS PAY DAY AT BORDEN CONDENSED MILK COMPANY'S PLANT.

FOLLOWS VOLUNTARY BONUS

Company Gave Six Cents Additional for All of the April Milk.

The Borden Condensed Milk factory in this city today paid to the dairy farmers of Dixon and vicinity the sum of $33,010 for milk delivered to the local factory during the past two weeks.

This follows a voluntary bonus paid the farmers by the company early this week on April milk, the checks being mailed out the first of the week giving every farmer who delivered milk to the factory during April a bonus of six cents per hundred pounds, making the price paid here equal to that paid near Chicago, where the highest priced milk is always found.

The six cents bonus was given in addition to the regular price, $1.55 per hundredweight, and those who had butter testing 3.8 per cent butter fat were given an additional ten cent bonus, giving them a total of $1.71 per hundred pounds for their milk.

SHAFTING TORE BODY TO PIECES

ROCKFORD MAN MET HORRIBLE DEATH THERE THURSDAY MORNING

George Laurs, a Lithuanian, 24 years old, who had been a resident of Rockford for the past two months met an instant and terrible death at 11 o'clock Thursday morning when he was jerked into a shafting at the Empire Furniture Company, and parts of his dismembered and headless body were hurled about the basement in which the accident happened.

So quickly did the tragedy take place that only a dull thud notified the men working in other parts of the basement of the accident. When the horrified workmen glanced around for the cause of the sound they found Laurs' clothes wrapped tight around the whirling bar, and his head, legs and arms scattered on the floor. After the coroner had removed the ghastly remains the factory closed down for the remainder of the day.

KILL WEEDS ALONG NORTHWESTERN LINE

CHEMICALS BEING SCATTERED ALONG RIGHT OF WAY OF THE COMPANY.

The weeds that are infesting the right of way of the C. & N. W. Ry. are being killed by the use of a solution of poisonous chemicals, applied by hydraulic force. The task is in charge of the roadmaster, Leo Ryan.

It is claimed that the chemicals will not only destroy the weeds, but will prevent them growing for a period of three years. Not only does it prevent the weeds from growing, but it will be impossible to cause seed of any kind to grow. It is claimed that the right of way of the Northwestern will be as barren as a desert.

Use Huge Tank.

A huge tank similar in construction to the street flusher, but five times as large, mounted on a flat car arrived here last evening. Air pressure is furnished from the air pumps on the engine, which is attached to the car.

The cost of killing weeds by this method is very small, and it is the general belief that it will be much more satisfactory than under the old methods. A thorough trial of the chemical is to be made.

LEE COUNTY TOWNS ARE IN FLOURISHING CONDITION

Compton and West Brooklyn are two of the smaller towns in Lee county that are up and coming, so to speak. West Brooklyn is putting her streets and crossings in excellent condition. This is done, according to the declarations of her business men, so that auto tourists will find things in good shape in passing through the village. Edward Henry is constructing a two-story cement block garage, which will be a handy when completed. Mr. Henry intends to conduct a business as up-to-date as cities have.

The lads and lassies of West Brooklyn are delighted with the idea of coming to Dixon to celebrate the Fourth. Their band is the pride of the village and the boys have been invited to play in the county seat. Every man who owns an auto will fill it up and head toward Dixon the morning of the Fourth.

Compton Oils Streets. Compton is certainly not behind

Hyde has disappeared, fearing violence at the hands of the angry father and indignant neighbors. CONTRACTOR MUST IMPORT SOME LABOR

IMPROVEMENT PROJECTS HERE KEEP EVERY MAN AT WORK.

If there is an able bodied and willing man in Dixon who is out of work it is his own fault, for the demand for laborers here is more insistent than it has been for years and the supply is not large enough to meet the demand. In fact Foreman Crofts, who is here to start the paving of Commercial alley for the Gund & Graham company Monday morning, has been forced to wire to his firm at Freeport and ask them to send him a force of men with which to commence work. Mr. Crofts made an exhaustive search for men yesterday, but could not find enough to meet his needs, and consequently the importation of labor is necessary.

Social Happenings

Missionary All Day Meeting

The Missionary Society of the St. James church held an all day meeting at the home of their president, Mrs. Geisler, yesterday. Fifty people were present. Most of them came early and were busy with needlework until noon when one of those sumptuous scramble dinners for which this society is noted, was served. Mrs. Ed Miller and Mrs. Heisey conducted the lesson; it was interesting. Everyone was pleased because of the presence of Grandma Smith of Nachusa and Martha Lindeman. Mr. and Mrs. Lyndes of Beatrice, Neb., were also present. The society will meet with Mrs. Ralph Lehman next month.

Miss Ahrens Praised

The Sterling Standard writes of the reception given to the Baptist choral union by the pastor and his wife on Wednesday evening and it proved a most enjoyable affair. The church parlors were beautifully decorated in white and purple. Light refreshments were served followed by several readings by Miss Gertrude Ahrens. These readings were the feature of the evening.

Miss Ahrens is a young woman of fine abilities, refined and cultured, and with a naive manner that is attractive and captivating. Her imperiousness of childhood were superb. She seems remarkably well adapted to this line of entertainments, and should she select it as her life work will make a record that all her friends will be proud of.

The above words of praise will greatly please the many friends of Miss Ahrens in Dixon. She is a niece of Mrs. A. W. Harms of this city, and has visited in Dixon many times.

The bride's parents were at one time residents of Dixon and come from an old and respected lineage.

Most Eye Troubles

are congenital—people were born with them. For these defects there is just ONE relief—properly adjusted glasses.

When the eyeball is not perfectly formed—when it is too long or too short, the defects in refraction must be corrected by the proper lenses. We can diagnose any case of refractive error and determine the AMOUNT of that error.

Then we can have the proper lenses ground to correct the error. Can we be of service to you?

GOOD PAY BY RAILROAD

The Northwestern has notified its section hands that hereafter the pay for help of this kind will be $1.90 a day.

Ten years ago section hands were a drug on the market at $1.25 a day. At the present price there is still a great demand for the workers and they are hard to obtain. The price has been considerably higher at times of great scarcity in the past few years, but $1.90 represents a pretty high level for unskilled labor of this kind.

UNKNOWN MAN FOUND

DEAD AT SAVANNA

The body of an unknown man, about sixty years of age, says the Savanna Journal, was found at the entrance to the ball park Thursday afternoon by two men giving their name as Hoover.

Mendota: A special train was run from Earlville to Aurora by the Q. Wednesday afternoon to bring one injured man to the St. Charles hospital, who had a foot crushed while attempting to board a moving west bound train. News was telegraphed to Aurora and the nearest train on the road dispatched to bring the man to Aurora. His identity is not known, but a card with the name "Vean Fairchild" was found in one of his pockets.

Mrs. George Plein is visiting with friends and relatives in Chicago.

A Human Match Factory

The body contains phosphorus sufficient to make 483,000 matches. Phosphorus is one of fourteen elements composing the body—divided among bones, flesh, nervous system and other organs. The perfect health of body requires a perfect balance of the elements. These elements come from the food we eat—the stomach extracts and distributes them.

But if stomach is deranged—the balance of health is destroyed and the blood does not carry the proper elements to the different organs, and there is blood trouble—nerve trouble—heart trouble. Pain is the hungry cry of starved organs. Put the liver, stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition into a condition of health. That is just what is done by

"Who is that hatchet-faced woman over there who seems to think it is necessary for her to do all the talking?"

"Don't you know her?"
"No, I never saw her before. If she's married I'm sorry for the poor devil who is her husband. I can't imagine anything more terrible than being tied up to a woman like that for life. heavens, hear her go it! Her voice is like a rasp. I should think her throat would be all worn out. Do you know what I'd do if I were married to such a woman?"

"No. For heaven's sake tell me."
"Oh. I beg your pardon, old man. I didn't mean any offense. I—I apologize."

"That's all right. You gave me to understand a moment ago that there was something you would do if you were married to such a woman. What is it?"
"I'd hasten to let my friends know it when I took her out anywhere so they wouldn't be in any danger of making the kind of a break I've just made."

HANDS BURNING ITCHING, DISFIGURED

Cracked and Swollen. Could Not Sleep. For 2 Years Nobody Could Cure His Eczema. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.

605 Lowell Place, Chicago, Ill.—"The trouble began by my hands burning and itching and I rubbed and scratched them till one day I saw little red sores coming out. My hands were disfigured and swollen, and troubled me so that I could not sleep. They were cracked and when the small sores broke a white matter would come out. I could not do any hard work; if I did the sores would come out worse."

"For two years nobody could cure my eczema, until one day I thought I would try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used warm water with the Cuticura Soap and after that I put the Cuticura Ointment on my hands twice a day for about five or six months when I was completely cured." (Signed) Sam Marcus, Nov. 28, 1911.

Not only are Cuticura Soap and Ointment most valuable in the treatment of eczema and other distressing eruptions of skin and scalp, but no other emollients do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough skins, itching, scaly scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails, nor do it so economically. Exalted Ruler, occupied the position of toastmaster. He called upon several for short talks and they responded with words that were bright, entertaining and inspiring. The first called upon was the distinguished guest, the Big Elk of All Elks, Thomas B. Mills. Mr. Mills is, by the way, a delightful orator, although he does not know it, and would deny it if the allegation were made. He spoke of the pleasure in having had an opportunity to meet the members of Dixon lodge, of his great satisfaction in finding such a beautiful clubhouse and such a large membership of so high a class of men in a city of this size.

Mr. Mills gave some interesting information on the Elks' National Home at Bedford, Near Roanoke, Va. where poor and indigent Elks are cared for, supported by the funds of the order. He told of the founding of the order in a little back room in a New York building, and its rapid growth to the present strong position it holds in the land. In closing Mr. Mills said: "Nowhere that I have visited has my welcome been more genuine. I thank you and bid you God speed, God bless you, and good-night."

Mayor W. B. Brinton was called upon for a few remarks, which he delivered in his usual graceful style.

Hamburger Speaks.

Ralph M. Hamburger, District Deputy of Northern Illinois, when called upon, gave a talk that greatly interested his hearers. He gave the history of the rise of Thomas B. Mills from a private in the ranks of his own lodge to the highest position in Elksdom, a position that he truly merits and has most ably filled. Mr. Hamburger characterized the Dixon lodge as a "real, true, simon pure Elks' lodge."

F. E. Stevens Was Good.

Editor Frank Stevens was called upon for one of his characteristic speeches, which was one of the hits of the evening. Mr. Stevens' subject was "The Liberty of the Press." He made his point in masterly style and mixed in enough good stories and humorous remarks to keep his audience half hysterical with laughter most of the time.

A musical number was next on the program. The old Elks' Minstrel chorus sang a medley of tunes from last winter's minstrel.

Exalted Ruler Bishop of Sterling lodge, and L. A. Pitcher, secretary of the building committee, was called upon and made some observations concerning the excellent financial condition of the lodge at the present time, and spoke words of inspiration for a campaign for members and other things to boom the lodge.

Exalted Ruler Herbert Harms closed the program with words of thanks and appreciation for the two gentlemen who came to Dixon to take charge of the dedication of the lodge.

Mr. Harms' short talk brought the toasting to a close, but for considerable time afterward the crowd of men, each brimful of good fellowship, loitered around the club rooms.

loath to leave the distinguished gentlemen who made the evening so successful, and wishing them good-night, God speed and prosperity in the years to come, with a wish that Dixon lodge may again have the honor of being their hosts, whether in a private or official capacity.

History of the Lodge

Dixon Lodge No. 779, B. P. O. E., whose beautiful home was dedicated so auspiciously, was organized and instituted May 2, 1902 with 38 charter members. Steadily through the intervening years the worth of the order has demonstrated itself in so many ways, that today the lodge boasts a membership of 473, and is ranked among the real live lodges in the state.

A. C. Eaton was the first Exalted Ruler of the Dixon lodge, and he was succeeded by the following in the order named:

Clyde Smith
E. C. Parsons
L. O. Rosbrook
E. W. Smith
W. B. McMahon
R. C. Bovey
John B. Crabtree

Meet in Hall.

When the lodge was first organized and for several years thereafter, meetings were held in the hall over the Dixon National Bank. In the winter 1904-05 the members sought more commodious quarters, and the Bovey building opposite the Telegraph office was leased. For many years the lodge grew and prospered in that building, until about three years ago the demand for a club house became so imperative that the movement which resulted in the present $40,000 club house was started.

Ground was broken for the building on Labor Day, 1911, and under the supervision of Louis A. Pitcher, H. U. Bardwell, E. W. Smith, R. W. Thompson, Henry Schmidt, Blinn Smith and George W. Smith, the building committee, the present commodious home was erected. It has been occupied for some time, but not until last evening was it dedicated officially to the eternal principles that form the foundation of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Is Half Paid For

Every member of the lodge is jubilant because of the financial conditions surrounding the building. Although it is less than two years old it is over one-half paid for and the bonds for the remainder of the debt are held by 106 members of the order.

The Dixon lodge has also established another most enviable record in that unlike nearly every other lodge in the state, no increases in dues or initiation was made with the erection of the new building; and everything in the building is absolutely free to the members, which is also a condition that does not exist in many of the club houses in cities the size of Dixon.

Credit for the excellent financial condition of the lodge is due to the trustees: L. A. Pitcher, Tom Young, and George W. Smith, and also the members of the house committees, who have worked so faithfully to make the club house a real Elks Home and to provide pleasant social functions for the members.

Have Bright Prospects

The future of the Elks is assured. With its present fine home, its active and ever-present Brotherly Love, and its constant adherence to the principles which have made Elks honored all over the world, future generations in Dixon will maintain the organization and will be proud to be greeted: "Hello, Bill."

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING
FOR LOVELAND PLACENORTH DIXON RESIDENTS WILL VOTE ON PROPOSITION MON-DAY, JUNE 23RD.

PROPOSED SITE OVERLOOKS CITY

Geo. C. Loveland Makes a Splendid Proposition to School Board—To Furnish Building Site.

The North Dixon residents will have an opportunity on Monday, the 23rd of this month, to vote on the proposition to erect a school building in Loveland Place, which will be for the benefit of all children in that vicinity. It is proposed to locate the building on the high ground north of the milk factory, where it can be seen from all directions. This school will be for the children of the lower grades. The present school building is now overtaxed and this proposition comes at an opportune time for it will be necessary very soon to erect another building for lower grades or make an expensive addition to the present ones. Geo. C. Loveland of our city naturally takes much interest in Loveland Place, as he laid it out and built many of the scores of comfortable homes which have passed into other hands. Mr. Loveland makes the following proposition to the school board: He will furnish in cash $6,000, if that amount is necessary to build the said school house. He will also furnish a large plot of ground most beautifully located on the ridge north of the Palmyra road. From this point a grand view of the city is obtained and the surrounding country for miles. The location has been selected by a committee from the school board and is valued at $1,500. In return Mr. Loveland will accept bonds for the amount of $7,500, bearing interest at 5 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually during his life and at his death the said bonds to be returned to the school board, the buildings and the grounds reverting to the North Dixon school district.

Fred C. Wagner has gone to Beloit to return with an automobile which he has sold to Mr. Bradshaw of Compton.

Mrs. C. C. Godfrey has entirely recovered from her recent indisposition.

DRIVER IN WRECK
IS UNDER ARRESTEngineer Dougherty Says Faulty Brakes Are to Blame for Accident.

TESTIFIES AT THE INQUEST

Declares Fact That Appliance Refused to Work Properly Had Been Reported to Dispatcher Two Days Before Clash.

Stamford, Conn., July 14.—Charged with manslaughter, Charles J. Dougherty, engineer of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad train which crashed into another train here Thursday, killing six persons and injuring a score of others was placed under arrest here.

Dougherty was released in $5,000 bail furnished by his brother-in-law, John Dillon, a New Haven business man.

Says Brakes at Fault.

Under cross-examination at the coroner's inquest Dougherty testified that the accident was caused by the failure of both the airbrakes and the emergency brakes on his engine to work when he applied them after reading the "yellow eye" caution signal on entering the block occupied by the train which he crashed into a few moments later. He also said the appliance used to reverse the power was too stiff to work properly. The engine driver further testified that he had reported the faulty condition of the brakes on this same engine two days before when after coming in from his run he had written in the train dispatcher's book at Stamford:

"Brakes no good. Won't work."

Dougherty testified that he had discussed the failure of the brakes to work with other engineers at the round house and all of them had told him that they had found the same trouble on the new 150-ton mogul engines.

The engineer said the trouble was that the engines were "too stiff" and that the management of the railroad should have gone to the expense of "breaking in" these engines in the yards instead of sending them out to haul fast passenger trains.

Start Three Inquiries.

In addition to the coroner's inquest now being held here, the Interstate commerce commission and the Connecticut public utilities commission will begin an investigation at New Haven Monday in an effort to fix the responsibility for the six lives which were lost. The officials of the Interstate commerce commission are still here making an investigation of the wreck preparatory to the hearing at New Haven.

It was learned that Charles S. Melten, president of the New Haven road, was a passenger in one of the trains stalled several miles west of the wreck and when he heard of the accident, hired an automobile and drove to the scene of the disaster, where he was able to view at first hand the remaining evidence, although he remained incognito during his stay in Stamford.

Senate Finance Committee Extends Rate From 2½ to 4 Cents.

Washington, June 14.—Amending the section of the Underwood tariff bill which would place on the free list all print paper valued at not more than 2½ cents a pound, the majority members of the senate finance committee voted to incorporate in the bill the provisions of the Canadian reciprocity act passed in 1911.

WEBBER IS STABBED

Witness in Lieut. Becker Trial Slashed in Back.

Wounded Man Refuses to Tell Who Made Attack Upon Him or Any of Circumstances.

New York, June 14.—"Bridgie" Webber, one of the principal witnesses in the Rosenthal murder case, was stabbed in the back on an East side street car early today.

Shortly before one o'clock a man, whose identity was then unknown, walked up to a policeman at the corner of Ninth street and Broadway and complained that he was suffering from a loss of blood as the result of a stab wound.

He described himself as Louis Harris, a broker, thirty-five years old, but when he had been removed to St. Vincent's hospital detectives recognized he wounded man as Webber. The man refused to tell the police who had stabbed him, or of any of the circumstances.

It was said at the hospital that the man would recover. Shortly after the conviction of Police Lieutenant Charles S. Becker and four gunmen as the murderers of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, there were many rumors of plots against the witnesses, but the attack on Webber is the first instance of harm that has come to any of the men.

WEST BROOKLYN

Eugene Biggart of Amboy visited here Wednesday.

Frederick Warren went to Bloomington Monday to visit relatives. A. P. Case, his nephew, brought him to town to take the train.

Miss Rose Becker of Mendota is the guest of her sister, Anna Becker here this week.

Mathew Maier was here on business Monday.

W. H. Kugler and several of the village aldermen of Harmon motored to West Brooklyn Tuesday to inspect the local village waterworks plant and to ascertain the scale of prices in order to be more fully competent and able to establish the water rates in their town. Harmon has recently installed a complete water works system over the entire town and now can afford their people good water and fire protection.

Our base ball team have had their batting averages figured and find they will have to practice considerably to correct their falling eye sight. The figures are—

Long .444; J. Malach .250; McCrea .250; R. Malach .175; Elliott .083. The others have their first hit to make after playing three games. In spite of this they have won two of the three games and are earning the title of the Hitless Wonders.

West Brooklyn 8, Shabbona 6.

The local base ball team partly retrieved themselves for the awful beating Compton gave them by taking the Shabbona team into camp Sunday afternoon by the score of 8 to 6. McCrea was the handy man in this game and won it almost lone handed with two 2 base hits which counted a bunch of runs both times.

J. Malach, R. Malach and Pitcher Long also rapped out two hits each.

DEAD JAPS ON SHIP

Weird Adventure of Engineer Off Coast of China,

Seaman Supposed to Have Been Drowned Climbs Aboard Deserted Vessel and Wonders at the Mystery of Sailors' Fate.

New York.—If Banzai, the Japanese poodle and prized possession of William Tweeddale, chief engineer of the Tweeddale, chief engineer of the British tramp steamer Atholl, now discharging her far East cargo at the American docks, Staten Island, could talk he would unfold a strange tale of the southern Pacific. But the story of how Banzai came into the possession of Chief Tweeddale is strange enough a tale in itself. Before joining the Atholl, Tweeddale was second engineer of the tramp steamer Viscar, and were that steamer's log to be had and the pages turned back to a year ago the drowning at sea of Banzai's owner would be noted.

"I'm a drowned man and that's all there is to it," remarked Tweeddale to a reporter, as he began the story of Banzai. "I haven't seen the Viscar since the night I was drowned in the South Pacific, but I've heard from my old chief, and he says I'm carried on the log as drowned, and that the Viscar's log is truthful in all things, and I drowned I must remain.

"It was about this time last year that I was 'drowned.' The Viscar had touched in at Japanese ports and was kicking her way south to Singapore. I had just been relieved of my watch below by the third and had gone to the rail for a breath of air. The night was stifling hot, and whether I had got too much heat or what I don't know, but I was taken with a sort of fainting spell.

"I came to with a sudden shock. I was in the water.

"It dawned on me mighty quick that no one had seen me go overboard and that it might be a couple of hours before I was missed. I shouted a bit more and then I began to save my breath and swim.

"Well, sir, I had some funny thoughts. First I began to wonder how long I could keep up, and decided that by taking things easy I was good for five or six hours and daylight, for I had gone overboard at midnight. I was beginning to tire a bit, and it was something of an effort to keep floating.

"Then, sir, I saw a sight that brought a howl of joy out my lungs. Sweeping along toward me, with all sails set, was a one-masted vessel. I began to swim toward her, yelling 'Help' every few strokes, but not an answering cry did I hear. I thought it strange, for the vessel was almost on me, but it wasn't for me to wonder about such things with a chance for life so near at hand, and so I bumped alongside as the boat came by me. Luckily I saw a rope hanging over the side and got hold of it, or I'd never be in New York or any other earthly harbor this day. Finally, with one last awful effort, I drew myself over the side and fell in a heap on the deck. I sat up with a start and there was a blooming puppy dog what had been licking the side of my face. That there pup was Banzai.

"Well, sir, I had come aboard into a pretty mess. The vessel was a one-sticker and was running under mainsail, topsail and jibs, but not a sign of a human being did I see. I got up and went aft, and there doubled up near the wheel was a dead Jap. The fellow was curled up like a fellow who fallen asleep and had tried to keep himself warm by rolling into a ball.

"I went down into the cabin and there stretched out on the floor were four more Japs. It certainly gave me the creeps to look at them. They all had the same ghastly expression on their faces and the same wild look in their eyes as the fellow up on deck. I looked about expecting to see signs of a struggle, but everything was as ship shape as could be.

"The more I looked at those dead men the more the idea stuck to me that they had seen something that had literally frightened them to death.

What it was you can guess as well as me. I've often tried to figure out an explanation of those dead Japs, but it's beyond me. The bodies were in a good state of preservation, so the men couldn't have been dead long.

"Well, the first thing I did was to heave those Japs overboard.

"I kept on westward for about four days and then late one afternoon I sighted a steamer low down on the horizon. Then I saw the steamer beginning to slow down. I ran up as close as I could and they lowered away a lifeboat to reach my ship. As soon as it pulled alongside I picked up Banzai and jumped into the boat and was taken to the steamer. The sailboat journeyed on as I had left her, all sails set and heading into the setting sun. She was a ship of mystery. Where she came from, what had happened to her crew and where she went I don't know and never will.

Origin of Common Phrases.

The origin of the common expressions in daily use is often highly interesting. Thus we often use the phrase "belated early" without knowing that from Saxon times down to 1615, a newly made earl was invested with his dignity by the girdling of "belting" on of his sword. This belting was then declared unnecessary, and later was dispensed with by a clause in the patent, until today it is only recalled by the phrase itself. Again, we hear the expression that he is not "worth his salt," though fed of us are aware that long ago Roman soldiers received a daily portion of salt as part of their pay, and when through time this was commuted for money, the amount was termed salarium, salt money. Hence arises our word "salary," so that "worth his salt" really means worth his salary or wages.

Gladstone on the Balkans.

The traditional opposition of Bulgaria to Turkey constituted, according to Mr. Gladstone, one of the chief factors of European progress. Speaking of the Balkan peoples, he once said: "They are like a shelving beach which restrains the ocean. That beach it is true, is beaten by the waves; it is laid desolate; it produces nothing; it becomes perhaps nothing save a mass of shingle, of rock, of almost useless seaweed. But it is a fence behind which the cultivated earth can spread and escape the incoming tide, and such was the resistance of Bulgarians, of Servians, and of Greeks. It was that resistance which left Europe to claim the enjoyment of her own religion and to develop her institutions and her laws."

SOME RULES FOR LONG LIFE

Englishman, in Splendid Health at 81, Tells How His Time Has Been Rejuvenated.

Five golden rules of health were given the other day by Mr. Frederic Harrison, the English author, critic, bibliophile, ex-professor, barrister, historian, traveler, and amateur gardener, on his eighty-first birthday, celebrated at his home at Hawhurst, Kent:

1. Abstain from tobacco, spirits, made dishes, and all dreadful things. I am satisfied with a little bit of mutton and rice pudding.

2. Rise from a meal with an appetite. I believe people eat too much.

3. Walk every day for two hours. I am too old to play at tennis, and golf is too slow.

4. Sleep eight hours. People cannot sleep who smoke themselves black in the face, eat too much, and have not walked enough.

5. More important than all—be contented with what you have got. Take things quietly.

SOIL IMPROVEMENT FOR THE WORN HILL LANDS OF ILLINOIS

Treatment of Limestone Should Be Followed by the Growing of Legume Crops in Frequent Rotation to Be Plowed Under As Green Manure.

By Cyril G. Hopkins and J. E. Read, University of Illinois.

There are large areas of worn hill land in Illinois that were once rich and productive but are now becoming poor and unproductive. By proper methods these lands can be profitably improved at small expense.

These sloping hill lands are especially extensive in the seven southernmost counties of Illinois; also in counties bordering the Mississippi, Wabash and Illinois rivers and to date between clay and sand, with only a small admixture of true plastic clay.

As to the composition of these worn hill lands, with respect to the essential and valuable elements of plant food, large numbers of analyses have shown that they are exceedingly rich in potassium, moderately well supplied with phosphorus, but exceedingly deficient in nitrogen. They are also very deficient in organic matter, or humus, and in southern Illinois, some extent along other smaller streams.

Soybeans on Field Where Means Were Taken to Prevent Washing. (Vienna Experiment Field.)

In most respects these hills are all very much alike and certain methods of soil improvement apply to all of them, especially for the so-called

Soybeans Were Sown on This Slope but No Means Were Taken to Prevent Washing. (Vienna Experiment Field.)

"clay hills," the soil of which, however, is not clay in true sense, but rather a silt soil particles intermeespecially, these soils are acid or sour and consequently deficient in lime.

For the improvement of these soils they should be treated with some form of lime (as ground limestone), and then legume crops should be grown frequently in rotations to be plowed under as green manures or fed to live stock and returned to the soil in farm manure. The limestone will help especially the clover crop and this use of clover, cowpeas, soybeans, alfalfa, and other legume crops which have power to secure nitrogen from the air (a power not possessed by other crops) will add nitrogen to the soil and also restore the humus, organic matter, which will help to prevent surface washing; and, as it rets, or decays, in contact with the soil, this fermenting organic matter will tend to dissolve and liberate from the soil the phosphorus and potassium needed for the growth of crops.

These lands should be kept in meadow and pasture at least half of the time, and if they are too rolling they should be plowed up only once in eight or ten years to give an opportunity to repeat the limestone application and work it well into the soil. After one crop of corn and one or two small grain crops, they should be seeded down again for meadow and pasture, using a mixture of red clover, alsike clover (which lives longer than red clover), timothy and a little red top.

Trap Nest Is Found Valuable.

By D. O. Barto, Associate in Animal Husbandry in Charge of the Poultry Department, University of Illinois.

The trap nest is so constructed that when the hen enters it to lay her egg the door, or front, of the nest closes behind her and she is confined there until some one comes to release her.

The production of table eggs of the highest grade which command fancy prices, uniformity of size, shape and color is essential. In trap nesting one of the first things noticed is that each hen lays an egg that has individual characters of its own, and in an ungraded flock there will be a wide variance in the appearance of the egg.

The poultryman decides on the type of egg he wishes to produce to meet his market demands and by selecting his breeders with this qualification in mind soon establishes a fairly uniform type of egg product. In incubating large numbers of eggs the loss on account of infertile eggs is quite considerable. If the eggs that have been saved for hatching bear the band numbers of the hens that laid them it will be noticed that most of the infertile eggs are laid by the same hens. Frequently the cause of infertility can be discovered and removed and, if not, the birds should be discarded from the breeding pen and the loss of eggs saved.

Also, it will be noticed that the chicks hatched from certain eggs lack vitality and usually die within the first few weeks after hatching. By the aid of the trap nest these eggs can be traced directly to the hens which laid them and these birds should be transferred to the unmated pens that are kept to produce table eggs.

To those who have not used the trap nest system, the additional labor required to release hens and keep the records doubtless seems almost prohibitive in many cases. However, this system requires much less time than one would think and the interest which it is sure to arouse in the ambitious poultryman as soon as he begins to observe the difference in the performances of his hens, more than compensates for the additional attention required. It is light work to pass through the pens two or three times in the morning and twice in the afternoon and release the birds that are ready to leave the nests, and women or quite young children frequently attend to this part of the work.

Another advantage in using the trap nests that I have found of considerable importance is the control it enables one to keep in discouraging the broodiness of hens.

When the hen is fed at night it requires but a moment to see that no hens remain on the nests and to drop the door so that none can return to the nest after feeding. If a broody hen is not allowed to remain on the nest overnight, it is not difficult to break up her condition of broodiness in a short time.

MAKE GOOD FARMERS

Many Women Successful as Tillers of the Soil.

Instances at Hand Where They Can Show the Way to the Men—Missouri Has a Farm Women's Club.

The last census showed 307,705 women farmers in the United States, and there is prospect of a large increase in that number when the new statistics come in.

Women have been called the conservative sex, but they are displaying anything but conservatism in the way they are grasping and utilizing modern methods in their farming.

All over New England, farm land is being reclaimed by women—many of them worn out by the strain of clerical or professional life—seeking the country as a refuge. One scientific woman farmer—Miss Smith—is annually making more than $2,000 on land that did not produce a revenue of $600 for the entire ten years previous to her purchase of the farm. In New Jersey the Misses Hunter have made a marked success of dairying. Miss Emma Blanpied and Miss Beatrice Cooley have for ten years been successful farmers in Oklahoma. They did actual pioneer work, going there from Kansas, breaking and developing the land for their crops. Mrs. Ruth Litt of Long Island is one of the most successful, from a financial standpoint, farm woman in the United States. Miss Jessie Field of Iowa has promoted the work of Corn clubs among boys and Bread clubs among girls, the effects of which have been for the rural betterment not only in every part of Iowa, but in many parts of the country. To the end that hundreds of thousands of lives may be saved in India, where famine often lays desolate whole villages, Miss Elsie Leue, a senior student in the College of Agriculture at the Ohio State university, will become the first farm missionary to the land of the Hindoos. Miss Leue is a Cincinnati girl, and has made a thorough study of scientific farming, which she in turn expects to teach to the farmers of India, that they may in future raise crops large enough to feed the people. While teaching farming she will also teach Christianity to the heathen in and around Punjab, India.

Many towns throughout the United States are inaugurating rest rooms for the benefit of farm women who come to town to shop. Miss Clara Haynie of Georgia is one of the champion corn growers of that state. She averaged 140 bushels of corn to the acre, which was several bushels in excess of the highest record given by any of the boys. Mrs. Matthew T. Scott of Illinois owns and successfully operates the largest tract of farming lands of any woman in the United States. Missouri has a Farm Women's club made up of women who are actual farm owners, of which Miss Alice Kinney is president and Miss Pearl Mitchell, secretary. Miss Louise Hardman of Georgia raised 2,155 pounds of tomatoes on one-tenth of an acre of land. This shows what women and intensive farming can accomplish. Mrs. E. S. McDowell of Massachusetts is treasurer of the National Grange in the United States. Miss Emma Wilson of Illinois, Miss Chandler of Wisconsin and Miss Flora McIntyre of California are successful women bee keepers. Miss E. Kate Le Lacheur is president of a woman's farm in England. She is a graduate of New Ham college, and has taken it upon herself to train girls for outdoor and agricultural work.

Studley Agricultural and Horticultural College for Women in England is doing a large work in teaching women students marketing and gardening, dairying and poultrying. "In order that we may have an efficient and happy rural life, the study of the problems which confront the home is as necessary as the study which every progressive farmer is now giving to the cultivation of his fields." So says Miss Mary Crosswell, one of Georgia's club women, who is school extension assistant of the agricultural college.

Miss Mary L. Matthews, who has been doing work in farmers' institutes in Indiana, has this to say: "Even a farmer's wife should not be a household drudge, a plain dish washer and bed maker. She should be given time and opportunity for church, and even club work if she desires. The condition of women on the farm is partly due to themselves, many women of today are using the same cooking utensils as those employed by their grandmothers." Mrs. M. H. Dunlap of Illinois is president of the State Domestic Science association. In regard to the work of the association, she says: "We believe that women should receive assistance and education in order that they may help in making better homes."

KIND ACT WELL REWARDED

Governor Chittenden's Humane Deed Caused Thief to Reform and Become a Man.

Governor Thomas Chittenden of Vermont is remembered for his great kindness of heart as well as for his ability and force of character. He was the first governor of the state, and lived in the liberal manner that befitted his office. His cellar, as was the custom of those days, was well stocked every fall with provisions—barrels of pork, boxes of vegetables and tubs of butter.

One winter night the governor's rest was broken by sounds coming from his cellar. He left his bed quietly, and with a candle ready to light made his way in the direction of the noise. As he reached the cellar he struck a light, and saw a man taking great pieces of pork out of his meat barrel and stowing them away in a bag.

The governor approached the intruder, and in a commanding voice said, "Go on, sir! Fill up that bag and be off. You ought to be ashamed of yourself to disturb honest people at this time of night!"

The thief shrank back, evidently much frightened.

"Be quick!" continued the governor. "It is no fit time to keep me shivering here!"

So stern was the governor's manner that the man was compelled to obey.

"Now begone!" went on Governor Chittenden. "When you are again in need of food come to me and say so, and I will give you more. Do not pillage my house at night. If I ever have the smallest reason to suspect you of another such act, you shall be punished for this offense as the law provides."

It is pleasant to know that the man came to the governor the next day to ask for employment. In order that he might pay for what he had taken, and that work was found for him, which he performed steadily and well. Youth's Companion.

LIKE SWORD OF DAMOCLES

Dread of Falling Always Present in the Case of the Circus Performer.

Day after day the circus woman dons her tight, slips on the heavy wooden "flat shoes" over her satin pumps, and goes with perhaps a "Bye, girls," and a nod to the wardrobe mistress, she shuffles out from the dressing tent to the ring, blows a kiss to the audience at large and takes her life in her hands, writes Sarah Sonstock in Collier's. She does not think of this fact consciously, as a rule; but subconsciously the knowledge is with each one that some day, perhaps, she will be like the little girl who once was hustled out of a circus ring so fast that the audience hardly noticed—and then a gaudy kimono was thrown over her face—and instead of her sloop shoes returning when the whistle blew, men's feet tramped and the circus doctor found no work for him when he got there. Get to know these women and you find that under all their easy light-heartedness, their gypsy spirit, is a sort of moldering dread like that of the people who live in earthquake countries.

You see it, for one thing, in the keen way they take up the subject of accidents.

"The worst I ever fell was once the net broke," said a trapeze performer.

"I'd just as soon have it break as fall bad in it," put in another. "Remember that time I bit my lip? Felt like my chin was knocked right up through the top of my head. My lower teeth cut my upper lip it had to be sewed up clear across."

I learned then that the art of falling in the net is as difficult as any part of the performance; for so great is its elasticity that if a performer "falls bad," say in a standing position, the knees may be shot straight up to the chin and a knockout blow may result. To learn to come into the net prostrate, as in a hammock, is no small trick.

Unfortunate Truths.

Congressman Henry was deprecating in Washington an international "marriage de convenance."

"Two men were talking about this marriage cynically but truthfully," he said. "The first man remarked: 'Of course the earl won't be able to support Miss Lotta Golde in the style she's been accustomed to.'"

"Oh," said the other, "her father will make allowances for that."

Congressman Henry gave a grim laugh and resumed:

"The first man looked thoughtful for a moment. Then he said: 'Despite the stories about the earl's past, it does seem to me that he's Miss Golde's devoted slave.'"

"Oh, yes," was the other man's reply, "he's eager for the bonds, all right."

For Emergencies.

In some of the college settlements there are penny savings banks for children.

One Saturday a small boy arrived with an important air and withdrew two cents from his account. Monday morning he promptly returned the money.

"So you didn't spend your two cents?" observed the worker in charge.

"Oh, no," he replied, "but a fellow just likes to have a little cash on hand over Sunday."—Harper's Magazine.

Brigadier General Pershing Describes Fight at Bagsak, Jolo.

TRY TO RUSH U. S. GUNS

General Bell Explains Reasons for Attack on Stronghold and Calls for Details of Conclusion of Conflict.

Washington, June 14.—Brigadier General Pershing in cable the war department concerning the fight with Moros at Bagsak, Jolo, describes the conflict as "probably the fiercest ever fought since American occupation."

The Moros made desperate attempts to rush the American lines, but were beaten back. Their leader, Amil, and several other notorious outlaws were reported killed. The total loss of the Moros was not learned.

One American officer, Taylor A. Nichols of the Philippine scouts, was killed. First Lieutenant Edwin H. Rackley, Philippine scouts, was slightly wounded. Three Philippine scouts of the Forty-first company, all natives, were killed.

General Pershing's report was made before the end of the battle. General Bell has called for details of the conclusion.

Tells of Fanatic's Rushes.

"June 12," says General Pershing's report, "the Moros' resistance at Bagsak was formidable and their fort and trenches on the precipitous side of the crater not only supported each other strongly, but were defended with modern arms."

"The Moros fanatically and continuously tried to rush the American lines, but the careful disposition of our force held the American loss to a minimum."

"Maj. George G. Shaw of the Philippine scouts commanded the right wing, with Company M, Eighth regiment, United States infantry, and Fourth company, Philippine scouts."

"Capt. Taylor A. Nichols of the Philippine scouts commanded the left wing (with the Fifty-first, Fifty-second and Twenty-ninth companies, Philippine scouts."

"A mounted gun was with each wing and proved of great assistance. At the close of the day Capt. Patrick Moylan of the Philippine scouts, with two companies, was supporting the gun on Mount Bunga, and the American force occupied a controlling position on the rim of the crater."

General Bell Explains Fight.

A cablegram from Major General Bell explains the reason for the attack on the Moros' stronghold. Assuming responsibility with General Pershing, General Bell said:

"The fight at Bagsak was incident to the disarmament policy of the government (Cameron Forbes) and the governor of the Moro province, adopted after months of patient but fruitless negotiations and marked by promises disregarded by the Moros."

"A situation arose that I believe left no alternative. Amil and a relatively small following occupying one ward of the island of Jolo were the only Moros who refused to give up their arms peacefully. Disarmament was generally desired by the Moros themselves. All the rest surrendered their arms months ago without resisting."

"Under the circumstances it was impossible and unjust to the disarmed Moros to permit a few of them to retain arms."

Datto Amil was a brigand and pirate who preyed on the peaceful element of his own people.

Capt. Taylor A. Nichols, who was killed, was a native of California.

GONZALES GOES TO CUBA

President Wilson Ends Southern Feud by Appointment.

Washington, June 14.—A famous South Carolina feud was officially ended when President Wilson sent to the senate the nomination of William E. Gonzales of that state to be minister to Cuba. Senator Benjamin Ryan Tillman of South Carolina consented to the nomination. The Tillman and the Gonzales families have been bitter political and personal enemies for many years, and their differences were augmented by bloodshed when the senator's nephew, James Tillman, while serving as lieutenant governor of South Carolina, shot and killed N. G. Gonzales and brother of the man nominated for diplomatic honors.

KILLS SWEETHEART AND SELF

Man Shoots Girl Because She Refuses to Marry Him.

Portsmouth, N. H., June 14.—Robert White, twenty-five years old, of New York, a wireless operator at the Portsmouth navy yard, shot and killed Miss Jennie Wade, the nineteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wade, and afterwards sent a bullet through his own brain, causing instant death. Miss Wade, it is said, refused to marry White.

Pretty Girls to Tour Continent.

New York, June 14.—Seven of California's prettiest girls, chaperoned by Mrs. J. C. Everding, sailed on a tour of the world. They left San Francisco eight months ago and have been most of that time in a pleasure jaunt across the continent.

GRAND DUCHESS VLADIMIR ON A PUZZLING ERRAND

There is much speculation regarding the real object of the recent visit to London of the Grand Duchess Vladimir. Being an aunt of the Russian czar, her mission naturally is supposed to have great importance, although announced unofficially.

She herself proclaimed the fact by accepting the constant escort of Anthony Drexel.

and allowing him to make up intimate little dinner parties where she met people who are fashionable and entertaining but not usually selected to dine informally with royalty. On her partiality for Mr. Drexel more will be told further on.

There is a belief that the Russian visit really was concerned with grave questions of state involved in the precarious condition of the little czar-ewitch. His eventual recovery seems to be accepted as impossible. Who will become the heir apparent in case of his death?

Grand Duchess Vladimir was supposed to be in England to secure the personal support of King George and Queen Mary for her son, Grand Duke Cyril, who is next in succession to the Russian throne after the czar-ewitch and the czar's only brother, Grand Duke Michael.

Cyril married a cousin of King George and his own cousin, an English princess, daughter of the duke of Edinburgh, who married one of Cyril's aunts.

Grand Duchess Vladimir had her second son, Grand Duke Boris, with her, and some presume he was brought to England with matchmaking intent, and the fact that the gay young man (as New York can testify) conducted himself in an exemplary manner, hardly leaving his mother's side, leads to the inference that the mother fancies Princess Mary might be available for his wife. The very thought of that match would be enough to make Queen Mary's hair stand on end.

But the more probable assumption is that the grand duchess' main object in going to London is in the interest of her eldest son, Grand Duke Cyril, who is already by marriage in the British royal family.

In 1940.

"Say, my boy, you're 25 now. It's time you settled down and got married."

"Oh, I'm not ready to get married yet, dad."

"Not ready? Why, young man, I want you to know that when I was your age I had been married twice."

BLUE AND DISCOURAGED

Mrs. Hamilton Tells How She Finally Found Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Warren, Ind.—"I was becoming terribly weak with female weakness. I had pains and was not regular, my head ached all the time, I had bearing down pains and my back hurt me the biggest part of the time. I was dizzy and had weak feelings when I would stoop over, it hurt me to walk any distance and I felt blue and discouraged."

"I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now in good health. If it had not been for that medicine I would have been in my grave a long time ago."—Mrs. ARTIE E. HAMILTON, R.F.D. No. 6, Warren, Ind.

Another Case.

Esmond, R. I.—"I want to tell you how much good your medicine has done me and to let other women know that there is help for them. I suffered with bearing down pains, headache, was irregular and felt blue and depressed all the time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and commenced to gain in a short time and I am a well woman today. I am over my feet from early morning until late at night running a boarding house and do all my own work. I hope that many suffering women will try your medicine. It makes happier wives and mothers."—Mrs. ANNA HANSEN, Esmond, Rhode Island.

TRAIL OF LOBBY
GROWING BROADER

Senate Investigating Committee
Gets Evidence of Far-reaching Influences.

FAVOR TO EXTEND INQUIRY

Senator Gallinger and Truman G.
Palmer, Beef Sugar Agent, See
Wilson Campaign Akin to Lobbying.

Washington, June 14.—Lobbying as a fine art, how it is done, who is responsible, what ends are sought, and what results are accomplished, probably will be investigated by the special senate lobby committee before it concludes its work and submits a report to the senate.

In executive session the committee decided to submit to the senate the question of a further broadening of the scope of its inquiry. Chairman Overman was instructed to lay the whole matter before the senate.

Wilson Figures in Testimony.
The committee's decision came at the end of a day filled with sensations. On two occasions President Wilson figured in the testimony. Senator Gallinger told the committee that in his opinion the president had once at least come "dangerously near lobbying," and Truman G. Palmer, Washington representative of the United States beet sugar industry, declared that a "plate matter" campaign much similar to the one conducted in newspapers by him had accompanied the campaigns of the president and Representative Underwood before the Baltimore convention.

Mr. Gallinger did not make a direct charge that the president had "lobbed" for the tariff bill, but the intimations in his testimony were taken by Democratic senators to be so broad that they subjected him to a long cross-examination on White House influence.

Senator Gallinger's statements came as a sensation. He was about to leave the stand when Senator Reed asked a final question.

Calls It Worst Influence.

"When a man says that he would 'hang some one as high as Haman' if that person did not do certain things," said Senator Gallinger, "and that an industry which proposed reduction of wages and did so would be investigated, I think that is about the worst kind of influence I can imagine."

"What do you think of a public official who gets up a scare about an insidious lobby?" asked Senator Nelson. "That he intends to influence public opinion and the opinion of public men," returned Senator Gallinger.

Q.—Would you regard it as a species of lobby? A.—From my own inability to define the term to my own satisfaction perhaps I would not like to say. It was a species of lobby influence.

"It was an intimation that men are afraid to use their own judgment lest the people suspect them of lobbying," persisted Senator Nelson.

Hints at Intimidation.

"It so impressed me," said Senator Gallinger.

"You think, then, that members of congress can be intimidated?" asked Chairman Overman.

"I have no disposition to criticize public officials for cheap partisan purposes," returned Mr. Gallinger. "I still am forced to the belief that the influence used in behalf of free sugar or free wool or free anything else is as objectionable as anything else."

"I am an old fashioned person. I still believe in the three co-ordinate branches of the government, and it grieves me to see the executive encroaching on the powers of the others and attempting to influence legislation."

Q.—You do not want to charge that the president of the United States has brought any kind of coercion to bear on any member of congress? A.—I would not undertake to do so. I have no disposition to criticize him unfairly.

Hesitates to Make Charge.

Q.—You don't mean to intimate that the president is holding up certain appointments to compel them to vote for legislation they do not desire. A.—I make no charge.

Chairman Overman asked Senator Gallinger for his opinion on the changing of a public document after it had been ordered printed by the senate. It developed in testimony Thursday that such a thing had been done in a document framed by Senator Lodge.

"I would consider that absolutely indefensible, if not criminal," returned Senator Gallinger. He saw no objection to the use of congressional public documents provided they were in the precise form in which the senate had ordered them printed.

SOMETHING NEW

Hulled Whole Wheat Cooked Ready TO EAT

There are about four recipes on the can telling how to use it. One to warm it up and use with cream and sugar like oat meal. Another to make whole wheat Porridge, to make a pudding with it, also how to use with ice cream and fruit juices. Still another how to make whole wheat fritters.

It is put up in a No. 2 can same size as corn and peas and sells for 12c per can. It is entirely new but seems as though it was a real good thing
